

In Hungary, we have a saying, that "the shoe of a shoemaker always has holes in it" – and that's a condition that I have also.

I never have enough time to finish my own portfolio website, I work on other websites instead and that's why I don't have mine made.

So here are some links to some of my works that are still online:

(most of the work I do are for promotional websites, so they usually go offline after a few months when the advertising period is over)
